

Viva It's Haza

6 – 1

If you've had trouble selling your house lately, you may be suffering from Real Estate Dysfunction, or R-ED. R-ED is more common than you think. But now, help is on the way....Viva It's Haza. Ask your doctor, your lawyer, and an Indian chief if you are healthy enough to engage in real estate activity. If you're taking medications like Flomax or Kaopectate, Haza may not be appropriate for you. Real estate activity (or any activity) will not last longer than 4 hours with Haza. In rare instances, men (like Kevin) have reported a sudden onset of selective hearing loss, nausea, and flatulence with Haza. Don't let R-ED slow you down. Get the facts about R-ED and discover if Haza is right for you. Viva It's Haza!
